Pro Tips for Drivers

Pro-tip 1 Have auto insurance if you drive a car. Not having car insurance can lead to financial consequences in the event of a car accident. While not having insurance doesn't automatically make you at fault, if you are responsible for the accident and lack insurance, you'll likely have to personally cover the costs for injuries and damages to both parties. This can be a significant financial burden, including medical bills, property damage, and personal injury expenses for the other party. To reduce this financial risk, keep your insurance active or do not drive. Take the shuttle, the bus, shared ride service, or taxi. It's not worth the risk.

Pro Tip 2 Don't go it alone. Talk to people you trust about their insurance. Check out this article. Ask about non-owner car insurance, which provides liability coverage when you drive someone else's car. and follows the driver, not the car. If you frequently borrow or rent cars, mention it when you apply for coverage. If you no longer have a vehicle, you may be able to keep your non-owner coverage.

Pro Tip 3 Keep your vehicle registration up to date.

Pro Tip 4 Don't assume that everyone who offers to let you drive their vehicle has insurance that covers you in the event of a car accident. Driving someone else's car without checking their insurance can put you at risk. If the car owner doesn't have insurance or their policy doesn't extend to other drivers, you could be liable for damages in an accident. Check for the vehicle registration and proof of insurance before you take off.

Pro Tip 5 Ask for help, if needed.
